ASKS AID FOR CENTRE COLLEGE IN CAMPAIGN FOR $500,000

Arthur Rhorer, graduate of Centre College in 1905, sends this plea for his alma mater in its campaign for raising funds:

"The Presbyterians of Kentucky are now engaged in a campaign which I think should interest every graduate of Centre College not only in Kentucky, but throughout the country. They propose raising $1,000,000 of which $300,000 will go to our old Alma mater and if this amount is secured, the General Education Board of New York will give an additional $200,000.

"It is almost needless to state that our college needs this money very badly. Strongly as it is entrenched in the affections of our people, it must meet competition and its needs should be supplied with very little trouble by her friends.

"The most pressing needs are a dormitory, more members of the faculty and endowment."

MELANCHOLY DAYS

KNOXVILLE PROBES PRICE OF COAL

R. E. Howe Admits Price is High But Prohibitive Cost of Production Cause.

KNOXVILLE, Oct 5—The first step of the proposed Board of Commerce investigation of coal prices was taken at the directors meeting yesterday when Edward S. Albers was appointed chairman of the committee of five representative business men who will dig below the surface of the coal situation in an effort to find the reason for the prevailing high cost of coal.

The investigation will not be limited to the margin above mine prices charged by Knoxville retailers, but will lead back to the mines.

Knoxville dealers are charging about $3 to $3.50 per ton above the cost of the coal f. o. b. mine. It has been charges this is too great a margin.

No Money Made.

Both operators and dealers admit that coal prices are high, but declare that there is no money being made out of the coal business now and that unusually high costs of production and handling of coal make it impossible o put the commodity on the market at cheaper prices.

R. E. Howe, secretary of the Southern Appalachian Coal Operators' Association, said yesterday that conditions are such that operators are running mines without profit and they are succeeding in only "staying about two jumps ahead of the sheriff and bankruptcy."

"We are running mines when we have only about a 200 car supply, and it costs just as much to handle one ton of coal at the mine as it would cost to handle 500 tons." Mr. Howe said. "A mine is something like a steamship and if it is going to run at all, a certain number of laborers must be employed regardless of the cargo hauled or the amount of coal produced Strikes and other influences beyond our control have run up he price of coal. We are paying the highest wage scale in the history of the coal industry, our overhead goes on just the same, though we cannot ship one-third of our production. If we mine any coal we must keep our mines and power houses at the same expense as if we were running at capacity."

Mr. Howe declares also that the retailers are not making exorbitant profits, as it would be almost impossible to handle coal cheaper at prevailing prices.

"If the investigators really want to find the basic cause of high coal prices, and we certainly agree that they are high, they must go outside of the coal industry," Mr. Howe said.

Prices per ton of lump coal were quoted yesterday by several coal companies at $11 delivered The cost of the coal at the mines is said to be from $7.50 to $8 a ton In addition to this the freight rate per ton on lump coal from Jellico district is $1.36 The freight charges are paid by the retailers. It is estimated that the cost of delivering coal is about 75 cents a ton. Over 75 per cent of the coal consumed in Knoxville comes from the Jellico district

Jellico coal is now being sold locally for the same price as Blue Gem, which is a more expensive variety According to coal dealers this is due to an increase in cost of Jellico coal at the mines

M. H. S. FOOTBALL TEAM GOES TO HARLAN TOMORROW

The Middlesboro High School football team has its last practice today before the Harlan game. The squad worked unusually hard this week and are determined to win the game tomorrow if it can be won Harlan is to play a return game here October 23

Those who will go to Harlan tomorrow are. Coach R F. Porter, Rice Gibson, Sam Marion, Charles Marion, Leo Wardrup, Henry Sewell, Homer Griffith, Jim Ginsburg, Ben Vandeber, Laurel McWilliams, Robert Ralston, Sneed Friar, Henry Billingsley, Billy Faulconer, Steil Mays and Harry McGibboney.

A number of football enthusiasts from here plan to accompany the team to Harlan and as many as can are urged to go and keep the morale at high pitch for the game.

DR. GRAY SPEAKS TO L. M. U. CLUB

Nancy Hanks Club Hears Address on "The Intuition And Soul of Woman."

HARROGATE, Oct 6.—The regular meeting of the newly formed Nancy Hanks Club of Harrogate and vicinity was held in the Conservatory building of Lincoln Memorial University Oct. 4, with Mrs Clay Cunningham, the president, as chairman. The feature of the occasion was an address by Dr. Johnson Archer Gray, the pastor of the Presbyterian Church of Middlesboro, Kentucky, on the subject. "The Intuition and Soul of Woman."

Dr. Gray reviewed the achievements of women in history and explained how much of the world's progress due to the women had been spoken of as the achievements of men He said he was delighted to know that there was one organization in the mountains which was devoting its entire thought and purpose to the needs of the girls. He complimented the ladies in their splendid beginning in their worthy object of promoting the Nancy Hanks department of the university, and said that he was going to look forward to the time when this club would achieve great things in the education of the girls

The committee appointed by the president at the last meeting to aid the Nancy Hanks department in be gining its operations, made its report at this meeting. It was found that 60 spools of thread, several cards of buttons and snaps, one pair of scissors, and $3.02 in money had been turne dover to the department by the members of this committee.

Miss Mossie Overton, of Cumberland Gap, gave a synopsis of the offer of Pictorial Review to give $1000 for the club in the United States that does the most worthwhile work during the year. Methods were discussed as to how the Nancy Hanks Club could enter actively into this contest.

A hospitality and a social committee were appointed by Mrs Cunningham to extend the hospitality and courtesy of the university to any visitors, new students, or friends who might visit the campus.

The following new members were added to the club: Miss Ethel Hamilton, Miss Bamble, Miss Bessie Smith, and Mrs. Taylor Cockrell of Cumberland Gap.

Dr. T. H. Curd and Mrs. J. A. Gray of Middlesboro were guests of the club.

DEFINITE DISPOSAL OF PROPOSED ROAD BOND ISSUE FIXED

Fiscal Court Decides $215,000 For Harlan-Page Road, $125,000 For Colmar and Stony Fork, $60,000 For Straight Creek.

ADOPT BUDGET SYSTEM TO ADMINISTER COUNTY FINANCES

A definite method of expending the $400,000 road bond issue, if it is voted, was decided on at the Fiscal Court session held Wednesday in Pineville. Cunty Judge J. S. Bingham presided at the meeting of the Fiscal Court. The resolutions drawn were:

That, if the $400,000 bond issue for road construction is voted, that the proceeds of said bonds shall be expended as follows: $215,000 for the Harlan-Page road, $125,000 for Colmar and Stony Fork, on Yellow Creek, and other roads in the southern part of the county; and $60,000 for the Straight Creek road.

That the money for the Harlan and Manchester roads be turned over to the Highway Commission, in order to obtain government aid and state aid for said roads

That for the Harlan and Stony Fork roads the bonds should be sold at once

That as soon as the bond issue be voted, $125,000 be placed in Middlesboro banks, equally divided between the two banks.

That a budget system be adopted to administer the county finances.

The following eight magistrates of the county who compose the Fiscal Court, with Judge J. S. Bingham, were there: Judge T. G. Anderson, Dr. Jacob Schultz and Charles G. Smyth of Middlesboro; G W. Field of Fonde, Noah Howard of Straight Creek; C. C. Thompson of Ingram; Garrett Taylor of Ferndale; M. F Creech of Pineville.

MRS. KATE R. O'HARE, NATIONAL LABOR LEADER HERE TONIGHT

Mrs Kate Richards O'Hare, of St Louis, made nationally famous during the World War for her spectacular stand and later for her fight to regain her freedom from prison, will be in Middlesboro tonight and will speak at the courthouse at 7:30 p. m. in the interest of H H Seavy, Farmer-Labor candidate for congressman from this district.

Mrs O'Hare was a pioneer leader in the cause of labor and is a nation-wide character in political circles.

The score was 22 to 10 in favor of Harlan, their team making scoring ten runs in the first inning

Those who went from Middlesboro were: T. R. Hill, R. L. Maddox, Warren P. Rash, H H Overton, Ed Hambright, C. G. Smyth, George Tiller, Jack Inman, Dan Wester, Buck Ralston and I. B. Dickey. George Tiller, pitched the last three innings, particularly distinguishing himself for the Middlesboro team.

TO SELL FARM PRODUCE ON EXHIBITION, TOMORROW

The farm produce on exhibition at the tent for the Harvest Festival will be sold at 3 p. m. prompt tomorrow. There are many fine kinds of fruit and vegetables on display, and the sale will undoubtedly prove popular.

MANY ENTRANTS AT HARVEST FESTIVAL EXHIBITED TODAY

Every Class But Two Have Entries—Many From Rural Districts Are Here—Speaking And Music This Afternoon.

ADDRESS, PICTURE SHOW, PRIZES AWARDED TOMORROW

The success of the Harvest Festival which began today is shown by the amount of interest taken in it by the exhibitors from neighboring communities. By noon today 230 entries had been made, some thing in every group for which prizes were offered but two. People have been coming in town all day from Cumberland Gap, Shawanee, Gibson's Station, Ewing Rose Hill, Wheeler, Speedwell, Tazewell, Tenn., and many other places roundabout.

The exhibitions, arranged on a stand in the center, are remarkable. Here are potatoes, apples, pears, corn, every kind of fruit and vegetable, of a size and quality generally associated with California. If the mountain section can raise such products as these, there is little reason to worry about the future.

Besides this produce there were various kinds of canned goods, fancy work, and flowers. One woman, Miss Mary Strange of Shepherdsville, Ky., had a display of almost one hundred dahlias The flower exhibit is to be judged this afternoon.

T R. Hill spoke at 2 p m. on "Middlesboro's Opportunity to the Produce Growers" A concert by the All Star Entertainers jazz band was given from 3 to 4.30 p m.

Tomorrow farm products will be judged and a lecture by Prof. E. C. Kannis of L. M. U. on "Truck Gardening," will be heard in the morning. Tomorrow afternoon the picture show, "Where is My Wandering Boy Tonight?" free to all exhibitors, will be given at the Manring. The awarding of prizes will be at 3 p m. Saturday, and no entry is to be removed until after this time.

FATHER DISBIPLINES GIRL BY CHAINING TO RAFTER OF HOME

By Associated Press.

Detroit, Oct. 6—John Sall, factory worker, today faced a charge of cruelty to a minor following the finding in the attic of his home in Hamtrack, of his daughter, Wanda, 13, whose wrists were chained to a rafter. The girl was so imprisoned, Sall told the police, because he had been told she conducted herself improperly at school. He decided to chain her to the rafter three hours a day, believing that more human than whipping. When found the girl was almost unconscious.

Intricate New Uniform World Map in Making

By Associated Press

Washington, Oct. 4.—Uncle Sam is slowly progressing on a new map of the country, to be a part of a new world map, based upon a simple system proposed by American representatives in 1908, and accepted at international conferences. It will be the result of years of effort by map makers who have desired a system of cartography whereby the same scale of distances could be used in a world map, with lettering and symbols uniform. The American map is expected to be completed in ten or twelve years.

Each country will map the territories and waters under its own jurisdiction, and the Geological Survey of the United States Interior Department is making the maps of this country.

The globe is to be divided into 1642 sections. Each section is designated by a distinctive letter and number combination, in addition to a name derived from the locality mapped. Each sheet, covering one section, will cover six degrees of longitude and four degrees of latitude. The sets are numbered from 1 to 60, beginning at the 180th meridian of longitude, and girdling the globe to the eastward; and are lettered from A to V, north and south, with the equator as a starting point. The north and south polar regions are to be shown in circular sections from the 88th parallel of latitude, and lettered Z north and Z South.

To Furnish Uniform World Maps.

The main purpose of the international map, which will be drawn on the scale of one to one-millionth, is to furnish a complete world map of uniform drawing, thus obviating different scales of distances, and to enable map makers and readers of every country to understand the maps of every other, even though they do not understand any but their own tongues. There will be shown oly the outlines of land and water, with depths of water and heights of land; stream and river systems, or drainage, in the map maker's parlance, roads, rail and trolley lines, towns and cities and contours.

While the scale, which is approximately sixteen miles ot the inch, will allow of very inclusive work, many details of small towns and streams will be omitted.

To show heights and depths, a scheme of hypsometric colors has been adopted. This will grade from a very light green for shallow waters, to the familiar tinth of deep blue, for the increasing depths of seas; and from light yellow, for low countries and valleys to a deep brown red for the heights. Contours will be shown in sharp black lines, at intervals of 100 metres. The metric system was adopted for all numerals, and high points, locks and mountains will be shown in metres. Streams and rivers will be shown in blue, roads in red, cities and rail lines in black. The names of features will be shown in the color of that feature, to obviate confusion.

Based On Polyconic System.

The projection is based upon a modified polyconic system, wherein meridians of longitude are all in straight lines. The lines of latitude will be only slightly curving on each sheet, because of the large scale. The system is of advantage in the adjustment of adjoining sheets.

As many political boundaries will be shown as the density of the data included permits. For instance, the map of the United States will show state, county, reservation, land grant and other Land Office lines. The control, that is, positions determined as trigonometrically and by triangulation, to insure accuracy, drainage, including rivers, streams, creeks, swamps, canals, and other water bodies, and culture, that is, towns, cities, railways, roads and highways, all constitute a base map, which is compiled as the first step in the work and which will be made available by the survey for state and other maps. The completed map, in size about 30 by 20 inches, is copper engraved in the most delicate and strong detail, and will be available at the survey. It is reduced in size to form a scale of eight miles to the inch. The production is by photolithography.

Cost $35 Per 1000 Sq. Mi.

The sections thus far completed have required six months to compile. The work, however, for lack of certain extra appropriation, is being done concurrently with other map work. It is estimated that the cost for the international map will be from $15 to $35 per thousand square miles of area. The survey, desirous of having the most accurate and up to date upon the map, gathers the material from dozens of sources, and does not consider an area completed until every source of information has been drawn upon. These include the survey's regular information gathered in the making of the national topographic map, which was started fifty years ago, other governmental map making sections, state and county maps, private maps and army and navy charts.

The details of the international map were accepted by nine world powers at conferences in 1909 and 1913. While it is popularly known as the One-Millionth Map of the World, its correct title is The International Map of the World on the Scale of 1:1,000,000

LADIES! LOOK YOUNG, DARKEN GRAY HAIR

Use the Old-time Sage Tea and Sulphur and Nobody Will know.

Gray hair, however handsome, denotes advancing age. We all know the advantages of a youthful appearance. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray and looks streaked, just a few applications of Sage Tea and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundred-fold.

Don't stay gray! Look young! Either prepare the recipe at home or get from any drug store a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," which is merely the old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients. Thousands of folks recommend this ready-to-use preparation, because it darkens the hair beautifully, besides, no one can possibly tell, as it darkens so naturally and evenly. You moisten a sponge or soft brush with it, drawing this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, its natural color is restored and it becomes thick, glossy and lustrous, and you appear years younger.

Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is a delightful toilet requisite. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

TRIFLING TRAVELOGS

VERMONT Has No Cities, Leads in Tomb stones, Full of Beauty Spots

By W. H. Porterfield

Just because Vermont is our greatest strictly rural state, and just because her chief industry is marble tombstones, don't get the idea that Rutland, the marble city, is a dead town and not strictly up to date.

I would rather live in Rutland than New York city, and I think several million boys and girls of Vermont who have rushed off to the big city in the past 50 years, have for the most part made a poor choice. But let that pass.

They are up to date in Rutland. This morning, walking down the main business street, I saw this sign in a barber shop: Haircut 30 cents; girls' hair bobbed artistically.

The late Viscount Bryce, who was, I suppose the world's widest traveler, when asked to name the greatest of American scenic beauties, replied: The green Mountains of Vermont in late September, when the first frosts have turned the leaves to gold and crimson.

Coming down from Montreal along Lake Champlain yesterday, what I saw was surpassingly lovely.

No other tree colors so exquisitely as the Vermont maple, the sugar maple and, unlike most beautiful things, which exist only for their beauty, the Vermont maple-sugar tree yields up maple sugar and syrup to the extent of $1,500,000 annually. I guess the palm will have to be awarded the hard maple of Vermont for beauty and utility.

Vermont, as I said, is our chief rural state. That is to say, it has no larg cities or even towns. The biggest settlement is Burlington on the shores of Lake Champlain, is only 20,000 and Rutland, next biggest, has only 14,000.

Rutland is the marble capital of America—the Carrara of the United States. Immediately adjacent to the town are the largest marble quarries in existence, employing 5,000 workmen, which is one-third the total number employed in the state.

The richest marble millionaire of Vermont is Governor-elect Proctor, members of whose family have occupied every position of profit and honor in the history of the state. The Proctor family means a whole lot in Vermont. The Proctors are among those who stayed home while the wise guys of the neighbor families ran off to New York. Now the Proctors run the state—and that is more than the Green Mountain lads who went to New York will ever do.

Vermont is about as large as a big western county, but much greener in summer and whiter in winter, when they say, there are 40 feet of real snow in the mountains. The state is 150 miles long and from 40 to 75 miles wide, and if it were not for the mountains, you could motor all over it in a day or two at most, but also there are the roads.

Now, Vermont has the best dirt roads you ever drove over for two months of the year, but the other ten, good-night! But they're getting busy up at Montpelier and I am told that a general state-wide campaign for concrete highways is in immediate prospect.

Vermont wasn't one of the original 13 colonies, but she is thoroughly a Yankee state.

Rutland was founded in 1761 by Col. Mead, a Massachusetts Yankee, who had a wife and ten children. In those days, whenever a pioneer wished to immortalize himself, he just took his wife and family and pitched his tent by a convenient stream and called the place after his family name. He had population enough to start a town right there.

Now it would take 40 New England couples of the old Yankee stock to scare up as many children as Mr. and Mrs. Mead had when they came to Rutland.

The biggest crop of Vermont is hay, 1,500,000 tons of it, but they also raise potatoes and strawberries and sweet corn and cream and butter and cheese.

Folks who know tell me that Vermont has always specialized in white-skinned girls and yellow butter. Well, I'd rather have it that way than the other way round, wouldn't you?

Vermont with her Green Mountains, her maple trees and maple sugar, with her strawberries and her cream, her big, black bass in Lake Champlain and her wonderful tree-coloring in the fall—with her winter-tobogganing and skiing, and all the other playground attractions she has to offer, is just coming into her inheritance as one of the most attractive regions of our most attractive country.

FACTS ABOUT KENTUCKY

By Associated Press.

The first office for sentry of lands in the Virginia Military district that is now the state of Kentucky was opened in Louisville.

Gen. Christopher Riffe was the first Virginian to settle in Casey county. In 1808 he was a member of the Kentucky House of Representatives. He occupied a seat between Henry Clay and Humphrey Marshall when the latter voiced the insult that caused the famous Clay-Marshall duel. Clay resented the insult at the time attacking Marshall but Riffe seized one man in each hand and held them apart, history crediting him with saying, Come boys, no fighting here, I whops you both. This stopped hostilities during the session.

Logan county had more than 1,000 soldiers in the Confederate army during the war between the States and more than 300 in the Union army.

George B. Martin of Cattletsburg is Democratic Central committeeman for the state at large.

HOW ABOUT THE BARN BACK HOME?

A barn worth keeping is a barn worth painting.

A barn needs protection just as much as a house, in fact, more protection, because it is not built as substantially. You can point to your barn with as much pride as you do to your home if it is painted with

Sherwin-Williams Commonwealth Barn Red

It is made expressly for barns, corn cribs, silos, fences, etc. It is a durable, weather resisting paint for rough or smooth lumber. It sinks in, sticks tight and saves repairs.

Why Not Build a Barn, an Implement House?

A THOUGHT

A THOUGHT

Now therefore, keep thy sorrow to thyself, and bear with a good courage that which hath befallen thee.—II Esdras 10:15.

Go, bury thy sorrow, the world hath its share;
Go bury it deeply, go hide it with care
Hearts growing weary with heavier woe
Now droop mid the darkness: go comfort them, go!

OUR RELATIONS WITH THE RURAL DISTRICTS

Today is the first day of the Harvest Festival. All morning the visitors from neighboring rural districts rolled into town, most of them with exhibits of farm produce for the big tent. An eager good will to take part in the festival and to cooperate in what the merchants of the town were trying is manifest in all of these people, a good will undoubtedly reciprocated by the merchants.

Only a few years ago no one would have dreamed of Middlesboro and the rural districts around it making up the unit that they are now tending toward. The automobile, good roads broader vision and an alert commercial progressiveness are bringing these together, more all of the time, to the benefit of both.

Two clouds which tend to keep them apart are gradually clearing. One of these, an ever-present distrust on the part of the rural districts of our good will, keeps them from coming here wholeheartedly and cooperating in any commercial enterprise without a high precaution which destroys the spontaneity of it The other, on the part of Middlesboro, is the tendency of some of the merchants here to figure their own individual good in everything, in dollars and cents, and to ignore the benefit to the town and community which, if they would realize it, would eventually mean more to them anyway

As both groups learn more of the other and develop a greater community and altruistic spirit these traits will be entirely eradicated We will then be in a fairer way to perfect cooperation for the progress and upbuilding, socially and economically, of both groups.

BIRDS FLY SOUTH

Jack Frost is beginning to get in his work up north in Canada. Birds soon fly south. These migratory flights are mysteries of science.

How do they know when to start and where to go and how to find their way?

Bird migration is a very old habit, an inborn instinct which was developed ages ago, and which manifests itself year after year in a uniform manner and without any remarkable close conformity to immediate conditionsll

This is Prof Arthur J Thomson's explanation in his Outline of Science In other words, the annual southward flight of birds is a habit developed gradually through thousands of years

One scientific explanation is that the Great Ice Age, when glaciers moved down from the north, drove birds south. When the ice slowly retreated they flew back to their old homes in warm summer, but returned to the new homes in winter.

One guess is as good as another.

Ever wonder how fast birds travel when they migrate south? Some of them reach a speed of more than 50 miles an hour. When weary, as you have noticed, they camp for a rest—hang around a certain locality for a day or so.

Ducks travel 44 to 49 miles an hour and small songbirds 20 to 37 miles an hour, according to Colonel Meinertzhagen's observations. The bird named the Swift, has been known to pass an airplane doing 68 miles an hour, and reaches a speed of more than 100 miles an hour when flying with all its energy and skill

Hunters, now oiling their shotguns, soon will be shooting wild geese and ducks.

The geese travel in a sort of V formation, one side longer than the other, like a broken wishbone. Shoot the leader and the formation closes up, the next bird in line taking the fallen leader's place

Shoot the leader of some birds of wild ducks and, say the Objiway Indians, and the flock flutters to the ground, preferably a swamp, and presently rises after much chattering in which they seem to elect a new leader

This is the sort of adventure, romance and mystery that flies over our heads and exists all around us in nature. And yet some people frequently yawn bored with life, and complain that they can find nothing interesting

BERTON BRALEY'S DAILY POEM

DIPLOMACY

BY BERTON BRALEY.

When Armageddon ended, we sighed, "The Turk is through.
We've driven out of Europe that bloody-handed crew
Whose massacres and slaughter once sickened all the world,
The ancient Moslem menace afar from us is hurled!
No longer shall our history with Turkish deeds be black"
But—the diplomats got busy, and now the Turk is back!

The fine old-fashioned diplomats who brought about the war
Who brewed the European mess which we are paying for,
Who caused some twenty million deaths, who plunged the world in flame—
With just the same old box of tricks play just the same old game
We thought the war had freed us from the ugly Moslem pack,
But the diplomats got busy—and now the Turk is back!

The diplomats, they never learn, they never seem to change,
They play the same old chessmen which they shift and rearrange
They scheme and plot and gamble with the destinies of men,
And when they've ruined half the world they start to plot again.
Suave and sly and smooth of speech, they've ruled by outworn rules,
They look like learned gentlemen but act like knaves and fools.
Lord, save us from the diplomats, there's woe along their track,
The clever, stupid diplomats who brought the Moslem back!

THE REFEREE

BY ALBERT APPLE.

Napoleon

The first column of Count Mole's long-awaited memoirs is published in Paris. Its most striking point is this description of Napoleon at the age of 14.

While walking to and fro and talking to me, he showed signs of fatigue. He stopped and leaned against the billiard table; rolled the billiard balls with his hands, and seemed ready involuntarily to fall asleep

Napoleon said that old age begins at 30. Take heed. Young men who are wasting your twenties

Hypocrisy

Mole in his memoirs, says Napoleon never wrote to his children without wetting his paper with huge tears

Napoleon told Mole: Don't suppose that I have not as tender a heart as any man I am a kindly man

Imagine that, from one of the most heartless men that ever lived Napoleon either was an arch-hypocrite or he kept himself hypnotized. At that, his opinion of himself was as close to the truth as the average man's self-esteem. All men are vain. Vanity, self-preservation and reproduction are man's guiding motives.

Kaiser

The ex-kaiser's personal wealth still is so great that the Prussian ministry of finance, commissioned to make a settlement between the Hohenzollerns and Prussia, is unable to estimate the value of it all.

In and around Berlin alone, Bill claims 33 palaces, mansions and estates. He owns property all over the German empire and holds a stock of mortgages All this, logically should be confiscated and turned into the reparations fund

Princes

While the ex-kaiser still rolls in wealth, other German princes are hard up. They hammer loudly at the door of the pensions office.

A general pension is applied by Rupprecht, ex-crown prince of Bavaria, George, duke of Saze-Meaningen, claims he is eligible for an inspector-general's pension.

Prince Oscar of Prussia, applies for a brigade commander's pension, also asks the salary due him for the last quarter of 1918. He gets the letter, in an envelope addressed to Mr. Oscar von Hohenzollern. How are the mighty fallen!

Wines

Paris reports that 1922 claret is excellent and will take its place with famous vintages. Not since 1900 has such honor been claimed for any year's run of claret that the 1922 claret will be as excel-

Wine connoisseurs, however, doubt lent as in 1878 and 1893, the years of the most wonderful claret ever bottled.

Alas! It is enough to make the old home brew down in the cellar turn to vinegar for shame.

BELL COUNTY COURT

Regular September Term, 1922

ORDER CALLING ELECTION UPON QUESTION OF COMMISSION FORM OF GOVERNMENT IN MIDDLESBOROUGH, BELL COUNTY, KENTUCKY, A THIRD CLASS CITY.

WHEREAS, heretofore, to-wit, on the 8th day of September, 1922, a petition was duly and regularly received and filed signed by more than twenty (20) per cent of the legal voters of the City of Middlesborough in Bell County, Kentucky, a Third-Class city, voting at the last preceding general election, requesting an Order calling an election upon the question as to whether the City of Middlesborough should adopt and be governed by and under the Commission Form of Government Act applicable to Third Class Cities, passed by the General Assembly of Kentucky, in 1914 and being now a part of Article IV of Chapter 89 of Kentucky Statutes; said petition fixing the salaries of the Commissioners at NINE HUNDRED DOLLARS ($900.00) per year and

WHEREAS, said petition was received and filed more than sixty (60) days prior to the next regular November election, and

WHEREAS, said petition in all respects complies with the law in such cases made and provided,

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT ORDERED, that an election be opened and held and a poll taken in each and every one of the voting precincts in the City of Middlesborough, Kentucky, at the next regular November election, to-wit, on Tuesday after the First Monday in November, 1922, by the regular election officers appointed and held to conduct the regular November election, in order to ascertain and determine the sense of the qualified voters of said City of Middlesborough upon the question as to whether or not the citizens in said city are in favor of the organization and government of said city under the provisions of the aforesaid Commission Form of Government Act. The question to be submitted to the voters shall be.

"Are you in favor of the organization and government of the City of Middlesborough, Kentucky, under the provisions of An Act to Amend An Act entitled An Act for the government of cities of the Third Class in the Commonwealth of Kentucky which was approved June 14, 1893 and thereafter in due course became a law and as same has since been amended, all of which said Act and amendments now appear as Article IV of Chapter 89 of the Kentucky Statutes in John D. Carroll's edition thereof in 1914 at which Act was adopted by the General Assembly of Kentucky at the 1914 session thereof and under which the members of the Board of Commissioners shall receive a salary of nine hundred dollars ($900.00) per year."

The foregoing question shall be printed upon the ballot and to the right thereof shall be the word "Yes" and underneath the word "No", with a square to the right of each of said words for the purpose of enabling the voter to stamp his ballot properly.

The Clerk of the Bell County Court will give to the Sheriff of the county and to the election officers for the various voting precincts in the city of Middlesborough, certified copies of this order within five days after its entry and said Sheriff and said election officers shall cause said order to be published in the Middlesborough Daily News and in the Three States, which are newspapers published in and of general circulation in said city and county, once a week for not less than two weeks before the election and also advertise the same by written or printed handbills posted in conspicuous places in said city for the same length of time. Said officers shall have said advertisements and notices posted and printed within seven (7) days after receiving a certified copy of this order as hereinbefore provided for.

The Clerk of the Bell County Court will prepare the proper and necessary ballots to be used at said general election carrying the question above set forth to be submitted to the voters printed thereon and the regular election officers will furnish said ballots to the voters at said election and cause the vote to be taken, kept, counted and certified and returned in all respects as required by the general election law and the Bell County Board of Election Commissioners will duly canvass the returns made by said election officers at the time and in the manner provided by law and certify the result of said election in triplicate, one of said certificates of the result of said election shall be delivered to the Clerk of the County Court who shall spread the same at large upon the order book of said court at its next regular term after the receipt of said certificate and one of said certificates shall be delivered to the Clerk of the City of Middlesborough and spread at large upon the record of the proceedings of the Common Council of said city and one of said certificates shall be retained in the records of the Board of Election Commissioners.

If it shall be found that a majority of the legal votes cast at the election herein provided for were given in favor of said question so submitted upon the filing of certificates of election as aforesaid, said city of Middlesbodough shall be organized and governed under the provisions of the aforesaid Commission Form of Government Act and the compensation of the Commissioners hereinafter elected shall be NINE HUNDRED DOLLARS ($900.00) per year.

COUNTY CARE OF JUVENILE CASES

By Assosiated Press.

Washington, Oct. 5.—County officers in many states are finding it sound economy to make appropriations for local care of dependent, defective or delinquent children, rather than to allow this work to be carried on by individuals or rother private groups, according to a report by the hildren's Bureau of the United States Department of Labor.

Administration of care for neglected, handicapped or delinquent children by local boards of citizens, employing trained workers aided by state boards is, according to the county reports, the plan which is gaining approval in a constantly increasing number of the states.

Within recent years laws requiring or permitting some form of county welfare organizations of broad scope have been passed in Arkansas, Minnesota, Missouri, North Carolina and Virginia while individual counties, private agencies, or state boards in Alabama, California, Florida, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and South Carolina, are working out similar plans without special legislative action. County organizations concerned mainly with the care of dependent children is found in Arizona, Indiana, New York and Ohio.

In the past, the report said, the development of preventative and constructive activities for children in rural sections usually depended on the willingness of some private individual or group to assume the financial obligations. The recent rapid growth of county welfare work has come about largely as a result of the development of state-wide plans, but a local organization is usually put into effect only after the county was indicated a desire for it.

While it was found that plans are not alike in any two states because of variations in local conditions, the basic principles are in agreement. The general tendency is in the direction of broad, coordinated programs, according to the report.

REMEMBRANCE

Though I may sometime know the bliss of Heaven,
Free from all stain of earth,
I shall feel stirrings of the old-time
leaven
When summer hath rebirth.
I shall desire to tread these quiet
pathways;
To watch the river flow.
And see the distant hillsides turn to purpose
Against the sunset glow.
I shall not cease to love the fragrant grasses;
The murmurs of the bee;
The shadows stretching as the day light passes;
The robins in the trees.

If You Are Well Bred

You know that in this country a woman does not assume any title other than Miss or Mrs. on her social card.

It is always better form to give in full the Christian name or names, as well as the surname.

Mrs. John James Smith is preferred to Mrs. John J. Smith. Abbreviations of such names as Dolly or Sally are not advised on cards.

Miss Hettie Whitfield Sudent at Brenau

The following was received from the publicity manager of the Brenau College: "Among the popular students who have entered Brenau College conservatory at Gainesville, Ga., is Miss Hettie Whitfield of Middlesboro, Ky. The college has entered upon the forty-fourth year of its history, and the outlook for a most delightful year is in view."

Woman's Bible Class Meets

The Woman's Bible Class of the M. E. church, South, held its regular monthly meeting at Kentenva Hall yesterday afternoon. Mrs. M. E. Brown, president of the class, presided. A review of parables studied by the class during the year was conducted by Mrs. Bruce Moore. Members reported 104 calls during the month. Mrs. C. M. Bristow announced that the girls of her Sunday School class had just completed 25 children's garments and it was voted to send these to the All-Prayer Foundling Home in Louisville. The hostesses for the occasion were Mrs. Thomas Ivey, Mrs. L. D. Rouser and Mrs. G. W. Pridemore.

Woman's Club Reception Monday

The Woman's Club will hold a reception from 3 to 5 o'clock Monday afternoon in the ball room of the Booneway Inn, to which all members are asked to come. The officers of the club and the former presidents of the club will be in the receiving line. Special instrumental and vocal music will form part of the program which is planned to be unusually attractive.

This is the beginning of the Woman's Club activities this year. The club has been reorganized under its new president, Mrs. D. G. Hinks, and a full program for the year has been planned. A number of new members has been added recently, including the entire corps of public school teachers who are honorary members.

GIRL'S EYES MIRROR NEAR EAST TRAGEDY

Sherbrooke, Quebec, Oct. 6 — No thrilling tale of adventure or story of dire suffering will ever hold any interest for Nazalia Nakash, one of the first Armenian refugees to reach this country following the recent bloody advance of the Turks in Anatolia.

Although only 15 she has had her life crowded the past few weeks with enough tragedy to rival any work of fiction. Only her youth saved her from being driven insane by the horrors of her experience.

Nazalia's family lived in Mardin Armenia. When the victorious Turks swept through her uncle and brother were arrested along with 500 of the more important citizens of the town.

All were taken away and put to death. A couple of days later two other brothers were arrested, thrown into prison and subsequently tortured and killed.

A number of women and children were taken away for Turkish slave markets and harems. Nazalia and her mother were among those marched out in a miserable procession.

They were finally taken to Rasul Ain after suffering terribly all along the way many dying from hunger and brutalities. There a group of American missionaries tried to help them but they were soon driven out by the Turks on the grounds that they had been assisting the Armenians.

Friendly compatriots tried to help the sufferers, but it was too late. Exposure had so weakened the women that most of them died. Nazalia's mother was among them.

The American missionary came back shortly afterwards and the girl was taken care of. After many fruitless attempts permission was secured from the Turks to send 500 orphans to Syria. Nazalia was included in the party.

On her arrival at Aleppo she received news that her brother, who is a photographer here, was on his way home. After 11 years of separation brother and sister were reunited at Beyrut.

Her dark eyes still hold the mirrors of the horrors through which she has passed.

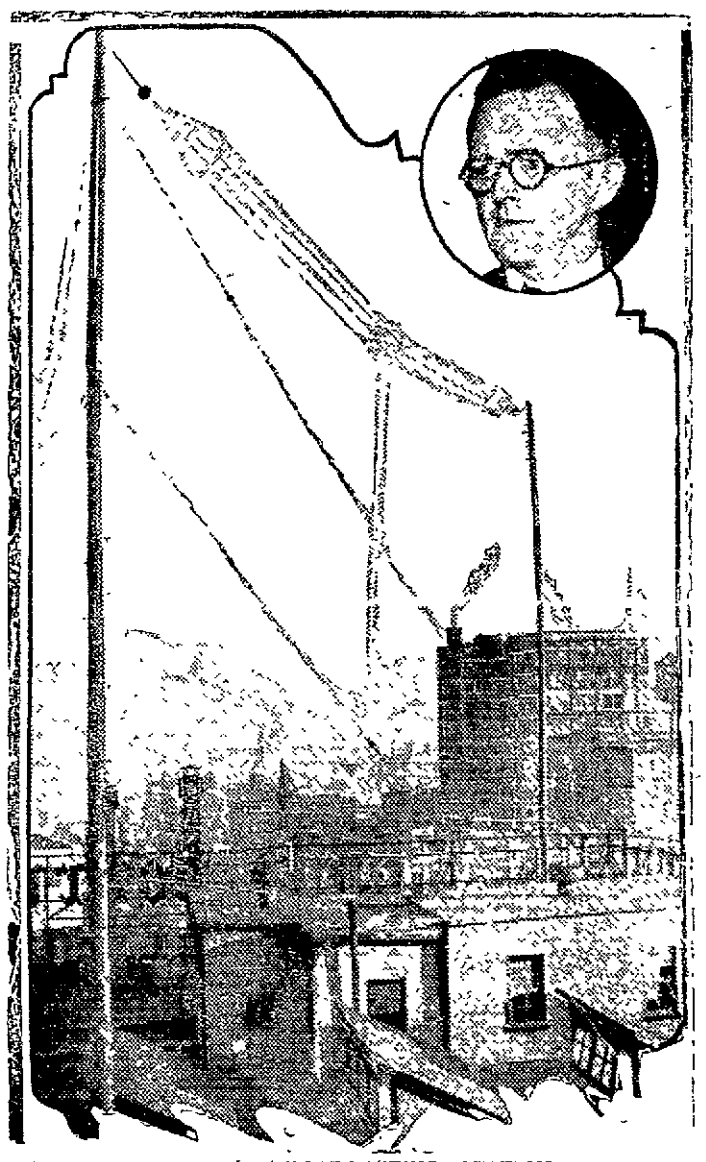
RADIO SAVES CITY



ATLANTA JOURNAL'S BROADCASTING STATION AND LAMBDIN KAY (INSERT) WHO USED THE STATION TO SUMMON FIREMEN AND SAVE THE GEORGIA CAPITAL A DISASTROUS FIRE.

Atlanta, Ga., Oct. 6.—"Radio saved Atlanta from destruction," declares Fire Chief William B. Cody, commenting on the latest accomplishment of the radio in rising to the emergency.

Fire broke out in a block of retail stores in the city's chief shopping district, a few hundred yards from the Atlanta Journal's building. It gained great headway before it was discovered, and threatened the entire business section of the city.

Lambdin Kay, radio director for the Journal, was conducting the paper's regular program. He sent out a bulletin on the fire, and followed with other announcements of its progress.

From all parts of the city firemen who were off duty for the night rushed to join their companies battling the blaze. They had heard Kay's broadcasted announcement of the seriousness of the fire and rushed to aid their comrades.

The extra firemen enabled the department to check the fire.

"Radio saved Atlanta," says Chief Cody. "If it had not been for securing services of all my men in the flames might not have been checked, and Atlanta's business district would have suffered one of the worst fires in its history. As it was, the flames were confined to the block in which they originated.

'I'm going to have every fireman in Atlanta install a radio set in his home so that in future I can notify them all at once."

The Flaming Jewel

By Robert W. Chambers

Copyright 1922 by George H. Doran Company

BEGIN HERE TODAY

The battle for the possession of the ming Jewel, which began two years o when the gem was stolen from royal jewel casket of the now beg- red

OUNTESS OF ESTHONIA, now cen- tered in the disreputable hotel in the Adirondacks where

IKE CLINH lived by breaking ev- y law. With Clinch lived his beau- tiful step daughter, the only good influence on his life,

VE STRAYER,

The Flaming Jewel was first stolen om the countess by UINTANA, the great international thief. From him, in Paris, Mike Clinch stole the gem and brought it back to the Adirondacks.

Now, at Clinch's dump, there ar- ved Quintana, seeking to regain the wel, and also

AMES DARRAGH who has sworn to restore the gem to the countess. Darragh, who is employed at the camp under the name of

IAL SMITH, learns that Quintana's gang are going to try to secure the flaming Jewel during the Saturday night dance

CHAPTER III

By nine o'clock the noisy chicken upper had ended; the table had been leared; Jim Hastings was tuning his ddle in the big room; Eve had seat- d herself before the battered melo- leon.

"They're off," remarked Clinch to Smith, who stood at the pantry shelf prepared to serve whisky or beer up- on previous receipt of payment.

In the event of a sudden raid, the arrangements at Clinch's were quite simple. Two large drain pipes emer- ged from the kitchen floor behind Hal Smith, and ended in Star Pond. In case of an alarm the tub of beer was poored down one pipe; the whisky in the other.

Only the trout in Star Pond would ever sample that hootch again.

Clinch, now slightly intoxicated, leaned heavily on the pantry shelf beside Smith, adjusting his pistol un- der his suspenders

"Young fella," he said in his agree- able voice, 'you are dead right. You re said a face full when you says to me, 'Eve's a lady, by God!' You oughta know You was a gentleman ce yourself. Even if you take to stickin up tourists you know a lady when you see one. And you called the turn. She is a lady. All I am living for is to get her down to the city and give her money to live like a lady. I'll do it yet. Soon! I'd do it tomorrow—tonight—if I dared. If I thought it sure fire. If I was dead certain I could get away with it I've got the money. Now! Only it ain't in money, Smith."

"Yes, Mike"

"You know me?"

"Sure."

"You size me up?"

"I do."

"All right. If you ever tell any one I got money that ain't money I'll shoot you through the head"

"Don't worry, Clinch."

"I ain't. You're a crook; you won't talk. You're a gentleman, too. They don't sell out a pal. Say, Hal, theres only one fella I don't want to meet."

"Who's that, Mike?"

"Lemme tell you," continued Clinch, resting more heavily on the shelf while Smith, looking out through the pantry shutter at the dancing, listen- ed intently.

"When I was in France in a For- estry Rig'ment," went on Clinch, low- ering his voice, "I was to Paris on leave a few days before they sent us home.

"I was in the washroom of a caffy —a cleanin' up for supper, when dod- bang into the place comes a tumblin' a man with two cops pushing and kickin' him.

"They didn't see me in there for they locked the door on the man. He was a swell gent, too, in full dress and silk hat and all alike that, and a opry cloak and white kid gloves, and mustache and French beard.

"When they locked him up he stood stock still and lit a cigaret, as cool as ice. Then he begun walking aroun' looking for a way to get out; but there wasn't no way.

"Then he seen me and over he comes and talks English right away; 'Want to make a thousand francs, sol- dier?' sez he in a quick whisper. 'You are on', sez I; 'show your dough.' Them flies lias went to get the com- missaire for to frisk me,' sez he. 'If they find this parcel on me I do twenty years in Noumea. Five years kills anybody out there.' 'What do you want I should do?' sez I, havin' no love for cops, French or other. 'Take this packet and stick it in your overcoat,' sez he. 'Go to 13 roo Quinze Octobre and give it to the concierge for Jose Quintana.' And he shoves the packet on me and a thousand-franc note.

"Then he grabs me sudden and pulls open my collar. God, he was strong.

"'What's the matter with you?' I says. 'Lemme go or I'll smash your mug flat.' 'Lemme see your identifi- cation disc,' he barks.

"Bein' in Paris for a bat, I had ex- changed with my bunkie Bill Han- son. 'Let him look,' thinks I; and he reads Bill's check.

"'If you fool me,' says he, 'I'll fol- ly ye and I'll do you in if it takes the rest of my life. You understand?' 'Sure,' says I, me tongue in me cheek 'Bong! Allez vous en!' says he.

"'How the hell do I get out of here?' sez I. 'You're a Yankee soldier. The Flics don't know you were in here You go and kick on that door and make a holler.'

"So I done it good; and a cop opens and swears at me, but when he sees a Yankee soldier was locked in the washroom by mistake. he lets me out, you bet."

Clinch smiled a thin smile, poured out three fingers of hootch.

"What else?" asked Smith quietly

"Nothing much. I didn't go to no 100 Quinze Octobre. But I don't nev- er want to see that fella Quintana I've been waiting till it's safe to sell —what was in that packet"

"In what?"

"What was in that packet," replied Clinch thickly.

"Sparklers — since you are so nosey."

"Where do you keep them?" inquir- ed Smith naively.

Clinch looked at him, very drunk- "None o' your dmged business," he said very softly.

The dancing had become boisterous but not unseemingly, although all the men had been drinking freely.

Smith closed the pantry bar at mid- night, by direction of Eve. Now he came out into the ballroom and mix- ed affably with the company even dancing with Harvey Chase's sister once—a slender hoyden, all flushed and disheveled, with a tireless mania for dancing which seemed to intoxicate her.

She danced, danced, danced, accept- ing any partner offered, but Smith's skill enraptured her and she refused to let him go when her beau, a late arrival, one Charlie Berry, slouched up to claim her.

Smith, always trying to keep the men and Clinch in view, took no part in the discussion; but Berry thought he was detaining Lily Chase and push- ed him aside.

"Hold on, young man?" exclaimed Smith sharply. "Keep your hands to yourself. If your girl don't wan to dance with you she doesn't have to."

Some of Quintana's gang came up to listen. Berry glared at Smith.

"Say," he said, "I seen you before somewhere. Wasn't you in Russia?"

"What are you talking about?"

"Yes, you was. You was an offic- er! What you doing at Clinch's?'

"What's hat?" growled Clinch, shov- ing his way forward and shouldering the crowd aside.

"Who's this man, Mike?" demand- ed Berry.

"Well, who do you think he ?" asked Clinch thickly.

"I think he is getting the goods on you, that's what I think," replied Ber- ry.

"G'wan home, Charlie," returned Clinch. 'G'wan, all o' you The dance is over. Go peaceable, every one. Stop hat fiddle!"

The music ceased. The dance was ended, they all understood that, but there was grumbling and demands for drinks.

Clinch, drunk but impassive, herd- ed them through the door out into the starlight. There was scuffling, and horseplay but no fighting.

The big Englishman, Harry Beck asked for accommodations for his party over night.

"Naw," said Clinch, "g'wan back to the Inn. I can't bother with you folks tonight.' And as the others, Salzar, Georgidaes, Picquet and San- chez gathered about to insist, Clinch pushed them all out of doors in a mass.

"Get the hell out o' here!" he growl ed; and slammed the door.

He stood for a moment with head lowered, drunk, but apparently cap- able of reflection. Eve came from the melodeon and laid one slim hand on his arm.

"Go to bed, girlie," he said, not even looking at her.

"You also, dad."

"No. I got business with Hal Smith."

Passing Smith, the girl whispered: "You look out for him and undress him"

Smith nodded, gravely preoccupied with coming events, and nerving him- self to meet them.

URGES GOVERNMENT MONOPOLY TO STABILIZE RAW SILK TRADE

By Associated Press

Yokohama, Oct. 5.—An increasing amount of attention has been paid to the importance of stabilizing the new raw silk trade so that the market may be made free from the violent fluctuations to which it is frequently subject, says Diamond, a financial newspaper.

"When the market slumps the merchants and manufacturers try to keep the price of raw silk at a certain level and among these means are the restriction of output, and withholding of sales under a certain figure," says the newspaper.

"If these devices fail, they ask for government assistance on the ground that raw silk is the most important article of export in the country. The government has been doing everything to propitiate them.

"As the 1920 stock is being disposed of a new situation has arisen and promises to develop into difficulty as the season advances. When the spring cocoons appeared on the market the raw silk market at Yokohama maintained great activity and high prices. The market since has suffered a decline and raw silk is now knotted in the neighborhood of 1,300 yen. The cutting down of output and the restriction of shipments to Yokohama have been agreed upon, but it is thot doubtful whether these artificial means will be effective in turning the tide of a declining market in the manufacturer's favor.

"Those who have carefully studied the causes are of the opinion that speculation enters too much into such an important industry and trade. For this reason they suggest that the speculative spirit be eliminated to a large extent if the trade is to be placed on a secure and sound basis.

"The carrying out of a government monopoly of raw silk may be one of the means that will secure stabilization of the silk market. This should not only guarantee the interest of cocoon raisers and silk manufacturers, but the foreign importers also would be protected against loss as at present they are frequently the victims of a fluctuating market."

NOT ALL AMERICANS IN ENGLAND ARE LAVISH WITH TIPS

By Associated Press

London, Oct. 5.—An opportunity for Americans to see themselves as at least some others see them, is afforded by an English correspondent who comments on the number of Americans he has met in his travels through the country recently.

At Chester, he writes, one would have thought the Mayflower's passengers had all taken dateless return tickets and sent the whole of their descendents back to the old country in a bunch.

The hotel where I stayed was full of sharp-faced men, elastic girls and shrivelled old ladies with eyeglasses and a drawl, who drank their water hot at breakfast and cold at dinner with an air of trying to believe, for the credit of the Stars and Stripes and the laws of the United States, that they preferred it to wine.

On the city walls, in the Cathedral, by the pleasant Dee, everywhere one heard the Chicago burr, the Western nasal twang, and what I beg leave to paradoxically describe as the long-drawn snappiness of New York.

There never were more Americans here, a resident told me, but they are mostly middle class people who have been induced by the European rates of exchange to take a cheap holiday across the pond, and they don't lavish many tips like the millionaires of pre war days.

This comfortable assurance, says the writer enabled him to leave the city without ruining himself in tips.

CUBA PLANS TO SEND COMMERCIAL MISSION TO EUROPE

By Associated Press

Havana, Cuba, Oct. 5.—With the approval of the department of commerce and the president, a committee representing the leading commercial and industrial organizations of Cuba is raising funds to finance the sending of a commercial mission to the countries of western Europe next spring to extol the merits of the island's products and the culture of her citizens.

Conferences will be held in Spain, Portugal, France, England, Belgium, Holland, Sweden and Italy. If the first mission brings results, similar missions will be organized and sent, first to Central and South America and then to the Far East.

PLAY LAST NIGHT BRINGS GREAT AMOUNT OF PRAISE

The delightful character portrayal in "The Little Shepherd of Kingdom Come," the play given at the Manring Theater last night, has been praised almost unanimously. A large crowd, with many persons from out of town, saw the play.

The scene of thi play, taken from John Fox Jr.'s book by the same name, is laid in these mountains. Kingdom Come river is near Lawson and the Turner cabin still stands there. Chad came from "over the mountains," a place near Harlan, and the station, Chad, is named in his honor.

Although the play differed greatly from the text of the novel, it was a delightful story in itself. Melissy, Chad, Old Joel, and the major, all took their parts well, and the dog Jack, and the old squire brought down the house by their excellent parts.

Between the second and third acts the manager of the show made a few announcements, saying as he did so, that the Manring was one of the loveliest theaters he had ever seen any where and that it would do credit, not only for a town of Middlesboro's size but for one of any size.

Standard Suit

For MEN and YOUNG MEN

$27.00

IN BLUE, GRAY & BROWN

Will the suit you buy stand this test?

Any piece of high grade serge may be soaked in water and yet remain absolutely unharmed.

But just soak a whole suit in water!—a whole suit, made up of so many little but nevertheless important parts (fabrics, haircloth, canvas, thread, etc.) all put together carefully in proper relation to each other.

Will all these parts—after the suit is soaked, dried and pressed—retain their original form and be as good as new?
